

My Soul Sister

Singing all done for fun,
painting under the sun;
always “livin’ on a prayer.”
Witty yet so knowledgeable,
sarcasm indomitable:
rocking to music like Slayer.

Arts and entertainment she so seeks,
relaxations at Ventura Beach;
as struggles around kept looming upon.
Emotionally supportive,
exuding strength yields her motive:
merciless fighting, whence all pain is gone.

Unassuming it seems,
when lifting up her dreams;
plenty of talents to contribute.
Hard working and ambitious,
whilst bad health proved pernicious;
irresponsibilities she refutes!

Silence then brews to worry.
Recovery come hurry—
like ice cream melting on a cone.
Awaiting updates via text,
thence her sister responded next;
saying she suddenly went Home.

Only one day has passed,
felt like a week amassed;
grieving through these emotional blisters.
’Tis her downfall deemed unfair,
stood strong with so much to bear:
for she’ll forever be my soul sister.

KRIS CABALLERO (OCTOBER 27, 2026)

Note

My Soul Sister is an original poem published by KC Universal Publishing at <https://publishing.kcuniversal.net>: the publishing sub-domain of KC Universal Network. All content was written—typed—by hand, without the aid and guidance of AI nor any writing assistance. Production of this poem was composed, edited, then finalized for publication using Emacs.

First draft composed on October 20, 2026; edited on October 25-27, 2026; finalized for publication on October 27, 2026. Poem title was inspired from the song “Hey, Soul Sister” by Train.

This poem was written in dedication to author Kris Caballero’s personal best friend, business collaborator, and occasional network contributor, Jennifer Akin, who passed in October 2026.